

Rhiannon Williams founded Communified Inc in July 2014 after her own child had been through a long illness. During that time she saw the need to help other families going through similar experiences. Communified is a community based organisation which provides support to children who have serious illness, their siblings and parents.

This support includes encouraging the child in the Warrior Mail programme by sending mail/cards/gifts from a wide range of supporters. Siblings are also included in the Warrior Mail programme – these children are often left with a relative while the parents are with the sick child at hospital.

The Dial an Elf programme encourages other volunteers to assist families who have to spend long periods of time with their child in hospital with practical help such as preparing meals to be delivered to the home, ironing, washing, gardening, cleaning etc. This eases the burden for the family.
